SKETCHES OF LITTLE

OLD NEW YORK
BY
O. O. MCINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-125 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—George Graham Rice is having his happy and virtuous day on the curb market. A few years ago, it appears, Rice was an out-cast among brokers. But now he has come back and has brought with him what is described by the fair haired writers of sports as a wallop. The rumor is zipping around Wall street that Rice is evening up a few old scores and is going to bring some of his persistent enemies into durandee. A career teeming with romance has been Rice's. He started as a reporter in New Orleans and has made and lost several fortunes in the street. He is again back on his feet as the result of promoting the Emma Copper stock. Some of his fellow brokers sold the stock short and could not deliver without going to his office and settling. It is on the theory that he who sells what isn't his must put it back or go to prison that Rice claims to have his fellow brokers in a trap. The war on Rice started several weeks ago when telegrams began reaching the newspaper offices signed by "mining engineer" and "mining inspector" that were disparaging to both Rice and Emma. The district attorney's office is now investigating the source of these telegrams. Page advertisements have been occupying the newspapers about Rice's stock backed by William B. Ridgely, formerly United States comptroller. Rice says he has $500,000 in the bank and is willing to spend it to find out who are making the attacks upon him.

When Charlie Falls, the artist, first came to New York he was a patron of the Mills hotels. Like others who have won success he likes to hark back to the time when the path was thorny.

The other evening he was telling a group of friends that his only objection to the twenty-five cent a night hotels was the number of suicides. "But you finally get used to it," he said. "I got so I would be awakened by a shot and a groan and would turn right over and go back to sleep."

She was not only young—she was beautiful. She sat in a box back of the Red Sox bench at Brooklyn during the world series. She was there to see the game and like the Maine farmer who said he was going down to Bangor on a drunk—Gosh, how she dreaded it. She was bored almost to a state of innocuous desuetude, if you know what I mean. I'm sure I don't.

Well at any rate the girl was unhappy. I could understand the reasons from my seat in the press stand. She was the only one of her party who did not understand the game. Once a companion said to her: "See, they have three men on bases." She sniffed. "So have the other side."

The men were so wrapt up in the game that they paid little heed to her. And to be beautiful and unnoticed is indeed galling. The young lady had my tenderest sympathy. Once upon a time a lot of chess enthusiasts dragged me to see a championship match and I have never really gotten over it. Now and then when I hear chess mentioned I get a case of the camp meeting jerks.

The other night I talked to Butch McDevitt, the Wilkes-Barre man, who was a millionaire for a day and has made a statute of himself which seven states refused to accept. His latest stunt was to nominate himself for the presidency.

On paper McDevitt looks like almost any squirrel would give him a good chase and that he was dead from the neck up. In fact a man in the crowd said it was a pity people went as far as Africa in search of ivory.

After all sanity is a relative matter. And I have never had it explained satisfactorily where sanity leaves off and insanity begins. I am under the impression that it is not only McDevitt who is being kidded.

HUSBAND SAVED HIS WIFE

Stopped Most Terrible Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Denison, Texas.—"After my little girl was born two years ago I began suffering with female trouble and could hardly do my work. I was very nervous but just kept dragging on until last summer when I got where I could not do my work. I would have a chill every day and hot flashes and dizzy spells and my head would almost burst. I got where I was almost a walking skeleton and life was a burden to me until one day my husband's step-sister told me to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got it and I have never had any female trouble since. I feel that I owe my life to you and your remedies. They did for me what doctors could not do and I will always praise it wherever I go."—Mrs. G. O. LOWERY, 419 W. Monterey Street, Denison, Texas.

If you are suffering from any form of female ills, get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and commence the treatment without delay.
